Visions & Views: The Troll Party – Constitution – Part 2.6

These Doo's Troll games has been an experience I didn't expect, I mean, how could I? To start a political party, how hard can it be?

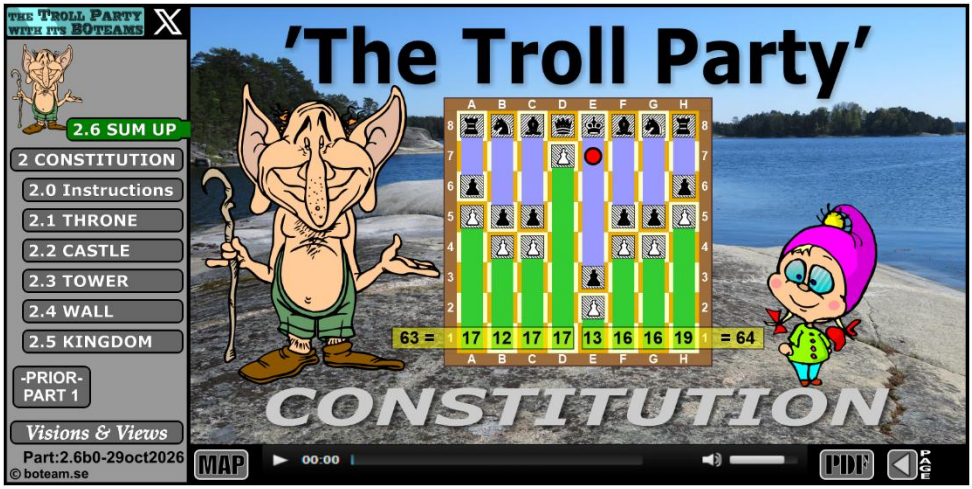
I do realize that a political parties must have regulations and rules to obey and follow, if not, how can people know what 'Kind' of party to vote for? Somehow I have learned a lot by these chess game exercises, and foremost about myself. It was very vise of Doo to have me figuring out these games on my own, as it needs to be 'Me' who knows how a Party Constitution works and 'Should' work, and not someone else I can ask all the time.

Okay…, I mean: If I ever should be thought of as trustworthy and true, I 'Need' to know. Likewise if I 'Want' people to vote on a party, it has to be progressive and honest about what they want, 'AND' competent enough to make their ideas 'Which People are Voting for' come true.

Whatever, this is just me babbling here on my way to meet Doo and Bo again. So, once again, with a clear and honest mind, I took that big step into Doo's and Bo's time and Nature reality.

… and like in one swoop, I was standing in front of Doo and Bo with my chessboard already set up in a way I hadn't seen it set up before.

Visions & Views: The Troll Party – Constitution – Part 2.6



"Welcome back! You have been busy I can see," Doo greeted me with a wide smile inviting me to come and have a look.
"Boo…," Bo then happily greeted me too.

"As you can see, we have been following you and now I would like to present you the result of your six chess games," Doo asked me to come forward to have a closer look like a Lecturer at an exam.

"Your black 'Need' Chessmen did good, but that white 'Will Queen' of yours you couldn't beat, right? But don't worry, nothing is wrong here," Doo started off with, with me laughing at myself happily admitting that my white will Queen had beaten me up really good, which made Bo booing at me again.

"Okay! This is what you six chess games ended up with: First 'Balance' up and down. Your chessboard tilts forward three steps because of the white Queen and Rooks won five 'Needs' squares, minus your black King who won two 'Want' squares, which shows on the chessboard here.

Second 'Symmetry', sideways left and right. Your chessboard tilts right one step because of the white Pawns position at the end of each game's. The left side 'A to D' gathered 63 points, and the right side 'E to H' got one point more, which results in the red spot at 'E7', indicating your Troll Party political position 'Identity' that is," Doo explained.

Suddenly those six chess games started to make sense, but I still had a problem with my black Pawns. Who were they?

Visions & Views: The Troll Party – Constitution – Part 2.6

"Okay, I hear you. So let us move on to the 'Map' and check that out," Doo continued.

"Now. The eight black Pawns represents the Kingdom like in layers you know, 'But' sort of upside down. The Constitutional games 'Body', I will sort out tomorrow for you, that will be too much for one day, even for me" Doo started to explain and telling me, and then he continued.

"A Kingdom can stretch and cover just one small tiny area, 'Territories' as I believe Humankind calls them, till vast worldwide covering them all. Even so, your next task in order to establish your Troll Party Constitution is to choose the level and 'UP' from where you 'Need' to be able to secure 'Sovereignty' for even the smallest tiny areas. Nature rules you know, and in Nature, the highest priority eight, is the Nest, … your family, the house or apartment, where you live. Remember all these roots and funguses in that hole Bo and I showed you, they are the origin to all life you see. To secure and defend their homes and living as highest priority, you secure their neighbors, and further on, their neighbors too," Doo advised me.

All this was very different from what I earlier understood was the case, but Doo didn't 'and 'Couldn't lie', and if so, that would not be him.

"Okay. I understand and would very much like to be lectured further on this, but then 'Tomorrow', right guy's. My head is quite full right now as you know," I told Doo and Bo, which they both happily agreed on.

So, see you tomorrow.